About Me

The Chief "Treble" Maker, Takenya Battle, is the go-to authority for private music teachers who are ready to trade hustle for harmony and take their profits to the highest octave. Audiences looking to build a private music teaching business that's in perfect tune with their life choose Takenya as their leading expert.

Through her signature program, Key of Easy, her weekly IG lives, YouTube posts, and her blog, she reaches 7,000+ music educators per week. Takenya's clients often say her insights are "life changing" and refer to her as "supportive and friendly" and "highly knowledgeable about modern technologies used in music education." Her advice has been featured on The Full Voice, All Keyed Up, and Sounds of Encouragement podcast.

When Takenya is not helping private music teachers to make their businesses sing, she can be found singing songs by Selena as if she were a member of the band Los Dinos or learning new languages.

From Doom to Destiny: How Failure Fuels Your Future

Failure is defined as a lack of success or the inability to meet an expectation. But what most people don't tell you is that failure is a key ingredient for your future success.

In this presentation audiences will learn how to stand tall, even in your failures, gain perspective on the "truth" about failing, and find motivation to use failure as fuel for your future. Takenya will also share a very personal story about her own "doom to destiny." This exciting talk will mobilize audiences to rise above tricky situations and move from gritty to golden achievements.

Free is Expensive: Charging What You're Worth

Did you know that free is actually quite expensive? Charging "chump change" in your music lessons business will leave you in continuous rage. You must charge a rate that reflects the value you provide and the experience you bring to the table.

In this presentation, audiences will learn what "free" really costs in their music lessons business. This exciting talk will mobilize audiences to stop undercharging, elevate the value perception of the services they provide, and to definitively nail down their niche services.
